GIVING AID AND COMFORT TO THE ENEMY.

Congressman Champ Clark, who is a favorite with Barre audiences, is getting himself into hot water by declaring that the precedent which has kept a vice president from becoming president by nomination and election is likely to be shattered this year. The Kansas City Journal thinks that Clark may be "dragged before the bar of Democratic opinion" to answer to the charge that he is giving aid and comfort to the enemy, even though his frankly expressed views in the premises are secretly held by most of the Democratic politicians of the country. The hearing of one of Congressman Clark's lectures gives the impression that he says what he thinks, and that without restraint. He apparently was as outspoken when he declared that Roosevelt would be the next president of the United States, without any doubt. If we mistake not, too, Clark has a secret admiration for the present executive head of the country, albeit that it would not do for him to make it too apparent. In his last lecture in this city Clark declared that President Roosevelt "knows something about the most things of any man I ever knew." It is likely that Clark's prophecy regarding the coming election was biased just a little bit through his admiration of the man personally.

"IT DOES NOT PAY TO BE DISHONEST."

Lying on a rude pallet, his body wracked with disease, his mind tortured with the memories of an ill-spent life, a Cincinnati criminal uttered these significant words, "It does not pay to be dishonest," the other day, just previous to the change which marks the disintegration of life. Without friends to lighten the burdens of his later days, the criminal furnished a picture at once sad and full of warning to others. "It does not pay to be dishonest," said a man who for over 30 years had lived a life of crime and who was in a position to know regarding what he spoke. The man had also in early life passed a score of years in respectability and uprightness, and knew, too, of the other method of living, the life of honesty. Drawing a mental picture of the contrast, he remarked, "Stuck and without friends, I have returned to Cincinnati, where I began my criminal career. The man who is once found to be dishonest gets no chance to reform—the police won't let him." It matters little whether in the bitterness of his last days the criminal rather overdraw the position of the police, the lesson is there.

A Vermont editor, in writing an obituary of a young man of his town, says "he was not a son that would warm the heart of father or mother." We suspect that if the deceased is survived by a father or a mother, the editor has been through the "warning" process ere this.

The principal of the Black River Academy at Ludlow expelled several students for indulging in dancing, contrary to his will. Now the students are dancing like mad.

In three courts in or near the city of Boston, three alleged murderers were arraigned, yesterday. We wouldn't beat the record if we could.

That odious creature the liquor "spotter" has again been at work in the state, this time in Orleans county. Where is their Siberia?

The announcement that the Democrats are "still for Cleveland" leads to the assertion that some of them are decidedly still.

We shall be pleased to hear the discordant notes of the stonished whistles again.

ANOTHER MERGER DECISION.

Supreme Court Holds Minnesota Case Without Its Jurisdiction.

Washington, April 12.—The United States supreme court decided the case of the state of Minnesota versus the Northern Securities company and the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railway companies, involving the validity of the merger of the two railroad companies, holding that it was without jurisdiction and reversing the opinion of the court below. The opinion was by Justice Harlan.

Justice Harlan, who delivered the opinion, said that the circuit court could not have entertained jurisdiction in the case, the effect being to remand the case to the state courts.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

Rev. Mr. Powell of Saxtons River, has accepted a call as pastor of the Baptist church at Meriden, N. H.

The New York state senate has passed the bill of Assemblyman Groff amending the fish and game law so as to provide that in fishing through the ice in Lake Champlain no fish less than six inches long shall be taken.

A decision has been reached by the vestrymen of St. Paul's church in Burlington to raise the sum of $1,500 needed to complete the $15,000 necessary to build a new parish house and work with that end in view was begun yesterday.

The Rutland police have begun a crusade to break up the depot park gang of loafers and criminals. Dyke Shinnery, the ringleader of the gang, was yesterday sentenced to 150 days in the house of correction for drunkenness and breach of the peace. The gang had become a nuisance, annoying travelers leaving trains. The police intend to put all the gang in jail.

Orin F. Luce, a former inmate of the soldiers' home at Bennington, received injuries likely to prove fatal Saturday evening. As the last electric car from Hootick Falls was nearing the power house, the motorman saw the legs of a man lying across the track, the owner being apparently asleep and partly concealed in the bushes. It was impossible to stop the car, which ran over both legs, cutting one off, and practically doing the same with the other. The man did not appear to realize his condition, but was taken to the Troy city hospital where it was found necessary to amputate both legs, one below the knee, and one above. Luce came from Randolph and served in Co. C, 17th Vt. Vols. during the Civil War.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Cruel Execution.
There's a lady in Kalamazoo
Who bites all her oysters in two.
For she feels a raving
Should any be living
They'd kick up a hullabaloo!
—Salt Lake Herald.

Explained.
Mabel—Why didn't you scream when he put his arms around you?
Ethel—I wanted to, but couldn't, and when I could I didn't want to.—Butte Inter Mountain.

Means to the Same End.
He never bought a golden bird;
He knew the good old joke.
He bought some Wall Street shares instead.
And that's why he is broke.
—Washington Star.

Modern Superstition.
Bachelor—What is your baby holler-ing so about in the next room?
Newlywed—Oh, his mother wants her own way about something. I suppose.—Puck.

Consistency.
Through zero days the naked trees
Have faced the winds and snows.
But now that balmy spring has come
They're putting on their cloes.
—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Hint.
Lots of people think they are full of poetry when a little sarsaparilla would clear their blood.

Not In His Line.

"Do you keep burnt leather goods?"
"No'm. You will find them down on the next block. There's a fire sale there."—Lester's Weekly.

Lofty Monuments.
Cromlechs, found in many countries, are rude monuments to the dead. Nearly seventy round towers from thirty to 135 feet high are found in various parts of Ireland. They are believed to have been used in the ceremonies of fire worship.

The Cossacks of the Don.
[The London Mail's Port Arthur correspondent, under a recent date, said, "Official advices are that the Japanese landed 600 soldiers near Tollenan, with disastrous results, 40 being captured by the Cossacks."]

The bugle rings, his steed he strides,
The battle calls him on,
And forth to meet its shock he rides—
The Cossack of the Don.
The flame red banner blazes that flows
Down from unconquered steeps
Wakes with the joy his wild heart knows
When blaze war's flaming fires.

God help the foe that meets them when
The Cossacks ride to war.
The strong, swift, bearded fighting men
Whose friends the gray wolves are,
Who make their coverlets the snows
When they lie down to sleep,
Who faster ride than wind that blows
When they their saddles leap.

No man has seen the Cossacks' sword
Turn downward in the fight,
In vain have tides of battles poured
Against them in their might.
The hoof beats of their steeds are known,
With all their wandering clan,
From bleak Siberian highways down
To sun-kissed Aethiopia.

When sits the white star on his throne
Within his guarded gate,
Brooding, with brow of gloom, alone
Upon his empire's fate,
He knows through every vague alarm,
While ships and men fight on,
He still may trust his strong right arm—
The Cossacks of the Don.
—John S. McGroarty in Los Angeles Times.
